

MORNING APPEAL.

June 28, 1888.

FOR PRESIDENT,
BENJAMIN HARRISON
OF INDIANA.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
LEVI P. MORTON
OF NEW YORK.
UNFAIR WORK.

The Virginia Chronicle publishes a number of garbled extracts from various papers, and tries to show that the Republican press of Nevada is dissatisfied with the nominees of the Chicago Convention. It quotes the APPEAL as saying:

The ticket chosen at Chicago, Harrison and Morton, did not suit at first blush, a good many Republicans of Carson as well as Blaine and Alger.

What the APPEAL did say was this:

The ticket chosen at Chicago, Harrison and Morton, did not suit at first blush a good many Republicans of Carson as well as Blaine and Alger, but, when the full significance of the ticket was known its strength became at once apparent.

It simply means that these nominations wheel New York and Indiana into line for the Republican party in November and make the victory certain.

It caps the climax by quoting the utterances of a paper running Cleveland and Thurman's names at the head of its columns, as voicing Republican sentiment in Carson.

It is a pleasure to the APPEAL to feel assured that the Chronicle will keep up this sort of work through the campaign.

AN ANTI-BRITISH RECORD.

Harrison's ancestors lived in England, but they were with Cromwell and against the Crown. One was beheaded for his bold stand for individual liberty.

Harrison's grandfather was elected President of the United States on a Protection platform.

Harrison is an American from the ground up, and has never been nobbled with Great Britain.

He will be elected President in November. Blood will tell.

The Cobden Club.

A friend asks us about the Cobden Club, how it was founded and for what purpose. It was founded in 1866, the year after the death of Mr. Cobden, and its chief purpose was to advance British commerce by instilling into the minds of the outside world a belief in Richard Cobden's free trade theories. We are not certain as to its home membership, but understand that it is composed of wealthy manufacturers, merchants and members of the titled classes of Great Britain. When any champion, in foreign countries, of the free trade heresy becomes conspicuous, he is made an honorary member. The list includes many Americans, among whom are Speaker Carlisle, Secretary Bayard, Hon. Wm. Morrison and many others. The Club is a literary bureau and also has a bar. It began to expend money in the United States in the election of 1872, it spent much more in 1876; still very much more in 1880, while we are satisfied than in 1884 it bought absolutely the influence of several journals that before had been prominently Republican; that it not only bought them but contracted that they should fight under false colors and assume to themselves lofty virtues which, beyond the name and the dictionary definitions, they had not the slightest conception of. The fund is counted upon this year to do more work than ever before and dirtier work if possible.—Salt Lake Tribune.

—The Democrats used to accuse the Republicans of cesarism and now they swear by the noble old Roman. A noble old American will win this year.

—Creed Haymond and DeYoung showed their hand too soon.—Daily Report.

This is not the only portion of their anatomy they showed either.

ODE TO SODA.

When the day is hot,
And the mercury's mountin',
Give me some shady spot,
With the fiz,
And the whiz,
Of Thaxter's soda fountain.
When mortals sweat and grunt,
For slices of daily bread,
One thinks it no affront
To be firmly but gently led,
To the place in Thaxter's store,
Where thirst shall be no more;
And the clerk begins to stir up,
With a dash,
And a splash,
Cheap for cash,
The lemon and raspberry syrup.
Some people drink their fill
Of iron and sarsaparil,
And some prolong their spree
With slings and sangaree.
But when I go on a bust,
Let me fill my skin
With sulphuric acid and marble
dust,
And hydrogen gas thrown in;
Glasses click,
Drink 'er quick,
(With a stick,
And wipe the froth off your chin.
